

SAFETY FIRST IS THE SLOGAN

Important Meeting of B. & O. S-W. Officials and Employes in Seymour Tuesday Evening.

SEEK TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Cooperation Between Employes and Officials Is Reducing Number of Casualties on the Road.

The opera house was filled Tuesday evening by employes of the B. & O. S-W. and their families and friends in consultation with the officials of the road, looking toward greater safety for the men who operate the trains as well as for the passengers who travel over this system.

"Safety first" is the motto which was held up as the ideal toward which the men should work. In the various addresses which were made a great deal of prominence was given to this feature. The railroad company is holding a series of meetings of this kind for the instruction of employes and for creating a spirit of cooperation that will lead to fewer accidents and greater safety for railroad employes.

During the afternoon a consultation of the officials was held in the office buildings here. Numerous complaints were passed on the splendid arrangement which the B. & O. S-W. office buildings offer to the officials whose offices are located in them, some officials saying that the road does not have a finer office building on its line than the one which we have in Seymour, in what was formerly the Hotel Jonas building.

Addresses were made at night by A. Hunter Boyd, Jr., of Baltimore, Assistant General Attorney of the road, who spoke of the decrease in accidents which has been noted already since the present plan of cooperation has been introduced. Although the plan has been in operation only a short time, there has been a marked decrease in the number of trivial as well as fatal accidents. Mr. C. W. Galloway, of Cincinnati, General Superintendent, spoke along the line of cooperation between the employes and the officials, hoping that the day may come quickly when the B. & O. S-W. shall be known throughout the country for the small percentage of accidents which it has. Mr. A. P. Prendergast, of Cincinnati, Superintendent of Motive Power, spoke especially on the matter of safety as regards engines and their equipment, pointing out a number of minor things which should be reported before an accident results from them.

Mr. John C. Hagerty presided at the meeting in a businesslike, straightforward manner, which was appreciated both by speakers and hearers. At the close of the three addresses a number of stereopticon slides were thrown on the screen and Mr. C. W. Egan, General Claim Agent, from Baltimore, spoke while pictures were thrown, showing accidents resulting from acts of slight carelessness on the part of employes. Mr. W. L. Robinson, Special Inspector of Motive Power, from Baltimore, spoke while pictures were shown illustrating appliances for avoiding accidents. In addition to those who spoke, other officials who were present at the conference were T. E. Stacey, Secretary B. & O. Y. M. C. A. from Baltimore; J. P. Kavanaugh, Assistant Superintendent B. & O. S-W. at Cincinnati; C. E. Fish, Agent B. & O. S-W. at Cincinnati; Rush Bragg, Secretary to the General Superintendent from Cincinnati; J. Hampton Baumgartner, Press Representative from Baltimore.

The party left last night for Flora where a similar meeting is being held today. They go to Chicago for a meeting Thursday and to Garrett for a meeting Friday. Another trip will be planned in a month or so, which will cover a number of points not included in this trip. These meetings are proving helpful wherever they have been held as is indicated by the decrease in the number of accidents occurring on this road.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

In honor of the tenth anniversary of its organization the Kaffee Klatch entertained a large company Tuesday afternoon in society hall. It was one of the most elaborate and delightful social events in the city's social history. It took the form of a Japanese tea party and the hall was transformed into a Japanese garden for the occasion. Everywhere the oriental decorations, the Japanese flowers on the walls and elsewhere, the Japanese parols and other Japanese effects lent their influence to the scheme. Altogether the entertainment and appointments were delightfully unique and artistic.

Many handsome costumes were worn by the guests. The hostesses were the members of the club, Mrs. Lillian Abele, Miss Myrtle Bennett, Mrs. Edna Bollinger, Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Pearl Clark, Mrs. Maud Clark, Miss Katie May Cordes, Mrs. Dorothy Dell, Mrs. Pansy Geplart, Mrs. Grace Mann, Mrs. Sudie Matlock, Mrs. Lelia Mayes, Miss Margaret Phelan, Mrs. Ola Shields, Mrs. Madlyn Watkins.

As the guests arrived they were seated at small tables scattered about the tea garden. On the tables were vases containing representations of Japanese cherry blossoms among which appeared butterflies of varied hues.

The out of town guests were: Miss Letitia Dye, Louisville; Miss Aimee Whitcomb, Cincinnati; Mrs. Simeon Jones, Cincinnati; Mrs. Elgin Marsh, Mitchell; Miss Clara Hangary, New Albany; Mrs. Liston H. Hill, Logansport; Mrs. Tilden Smith, Valleria.

The formal entertainment of the afternoon was a Japanese comedy given by amateur talent from Mitchell and which was given for the first time recently at the home of Mrs. E. P. Moore in Mitchell under the auspices of the D. A. R.

The stage was prettily decorated with Japanese settings and the comedy "The Revenge of Shair-Hot Su" was bright and entertaining and was cleverly given. The comedy was in two acts. In the first the interior of a Japanese house was shown and in the second a garden in Japan.

The cast of characters was: Shari-Hot? Su-Sama, A Learned Japanese, Leland Godfrey; Kioto, A Young Japanese, Leland Richardson; Harold Armstrong, A Young American, Frank Steele; Mrs. Beaconstreet, From Boston, Mrs. Calvin Faris; Nina, Her Daughter, Mrs. Ralph Wood; Moig-uf-fa, Called "Cherry Blossom", Miss Julia Jones

Toyama, The Mother of Moig-uf-fa, Miss Dorothy Wray; The accompanist was Miss Edna Dobbins of Seymour.

Between the acts tea was served by Misses Harriett Montgomery, Hattie Roeger, Marguerite Miller, Helen and Mary Lee Galbraith, Mary Mack, Josephine Fetting, Katherine Hancock and Lois Reynolds who were attired in Japanese costumes. After the play cream in the form of butterflies and Japanese figures were served.

Misses Helen Clark and Loretta Bollinger served as flower girls. The souvenirs were attractive programs decorated in brightly colored Japanese handwork.

After the play came a pleasant social hour.

At night the club gave a dance which was enjoyed by about fifty persons.

The Lutheran Social Aid Society held its annual banquet at the club rooms Tuesday evening, about sixty members being present. It was a highly enjoyable event, the program of toasts being entertaining and the menu of the banquet excellent. The menu was:

Tomatebruehe Knastwaffeln
Dokelgurken Kellerie
Kalbsbraten Gerostete Grundbirne
Bratensack Weinbeerfulle
Bohnenback Kosekuchen
Eisereme Kuchen

The damage suit of Henry Marshall of Mitchell against the B. & O. S-W. railway filed in the Lawrence circuit court was set for trial in the Orange county circuit court for today. The case was sent to Orange county on a change of venue. Marshall who was a conductor, had an arm cut off at Mitchell, some time ago. The accident was alleged to have occurred when the engineman moved the train in the opposite direction from that intended in the signal given. When the conductor stepped behind the train expecting it to move ahead, he was knocked.

IMPROVEMENTS Are Now Being Made at The Blish Mills.

The Public Service Company is receiving the various appliances that will soon be installed at the Blish Mills to take over that part of the engine load which now operates the receiving machinery in the grain elevator and tanks. This will throw out the 100-horse power engine now used to drive this department which will then be sold. It has been in use two years under the efficient care of Joe Brown. Besides the additional wheat already contracted for and to be erected soon as the weather will permit, the Blishes are now installing the additional machinery that will increase their output of the popular "Honey Boy" brand as much as six times their present output. They are also adding a second story to the office building giving a suite of two fine rooms in order to properly take care of their increasing business.

On Organizing Committee.

A North Vernon special says: Pursuant to the action of a conference of Roosevelt supporters, representing all parts of the district, held here, Judge Perry E. Bear of Madison, Thomas E. Davidson of Greensburg and Noble Moore of Seymour, have been designated to organize the Fourth Congressional District for the election of Roosevelt delegates to all of the conventions relating to presidential nomination. Delegates are to be chosen by precincts and townships, and everywhere the tickets to be used will be headed "For President, Theodore Roosevelt," following which will be the names of the delegates and alternates, who will support none but the Roosevelt candidates for delegates to the national Republican convention at Chicago.

Dry by 13 Votes.

Spencer township, Jennings county, voted "dry" Tuesday by a majority of 13. A heavy vote was polled as a strong contest was made. This is the township in which Hayden is located and the saloon men were anxious to reopen in that town.

Heart to Heart
Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

JOE AND SAM.

I watch the newspapers pretty closely for human interest stories. Here is one of the best I have seen:

Joe and Sam Leonard, brothers, aged sixteen and fourteen, respectively, went to Chicago. Sam is blind.

Flaxen haired, footsore, hungry, Joe leading Sam, they were found by a Chicago policeman, who took them to a station, where they were fed.

They had gone from New Orleans, riding in a box car. This was Joe's story:

"I don't care so much about myself, but I want to see Sam go ahead. I came to Chicago to work. I will do anything from peeling potatoes to scrubbing floors for Sam's sake. I will get ahead too!"

Joe's eyes flashed.

As he told of the death of their parents in New Orleans and of Sam's struggles Joe's arm stole around Sam's neck. Joe sold papers, but he got sick, and they had but $4 left. With this sum they left for the big city in the north, of which they had heard so much.

But Joe tells the story better than I can.

"I helped Sammy on a freight train. I got on, and we rode to Memphis. I was so afraid something might happen to Sam I could hardly sleep.

"One night it got cold, and I put my coat over Sam to keep him warm. A tramp was in the box car, and I was so sleepy I couldn't watch him. When I woke up in the morning he had stolen my coat and $3 which I had in my pocket.

"They put us off at Centralia, Ill., and we had to wait all day before a freight train stopped. I begged a little something for Sammy to eat. I didn't want much."

Getting up on his sturdy legs, Joe spoke out bravely:

"I am strong and healthy, and I am going to work to keep Sam. You know Sam is pretty smart, and I will soon make enough money to put him through school. Oh, if I get a job then we will get along fine."

Match Joe Leonard, big brother, if you can!

In true feeling, in brotherly self abnegation, in high resolve, Joe Leonard is already a man.

The boy asks only half a chance.

The city of Chicago will be unworthy of the manly spirit of Joe's brave and tender heart if it fails to give him that chance.

Read the little story again. It has many fine touches of pathos and heroism.

FOOLING WITH THE LANGUAGE.

Another of that class of "educators" who imagine that he must propose something "original" in order to obtain prominence has announced to the literary world that he has succeeded in eliminating nine letters from the alphabet, thereby working in it a vast improvement. So far as the process of elimination is concerned he is, possibly, correct in his statement. The "matter of improvement," however, will have to be left to the majority to decide, and there is no doubt that the verdict will be overwhelmingly against him. While the instance is not important of itself, it is illustrative of another of the many attempts that have been made within the past few years to tinker with the English language, the introduction of "fad" methods of teaching and the general tendency toward the bizarre in imparting instruction. Very few of the radical innovations that have been made within recent years have been justified, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. The majority of them have tended to befog the student and hamper him in after life rather than make his path easier. This was the case with vertical handwriting and many other "improved methods" that might be mentioned.

It is a curious fact that in the mildest winter on record the price of fresh eggs in New York should have mounted to an unprecedented height. But there's a reason—at least there is said to be. The cold storage men, it is stated, have in stock no fewer than three hundred million dozen eggs, some of which they have held for a long time. They are afraid of carrying this stock indefinitely in the present attitude of legislators toward cold storage. Therefore they are holding fresh eggs out of the market practically by putting a prohibitory price upon them, and thus creating a condition in which many people will buy "seconds" at figures that they would regard as extortionate at any other time. It's a great game—from the standpoint of shrewd business, not from the standpoint of fair dealing.

If the army gets more aeroplanes it will have to call them airplanes. At least the appropriation bill reported by the house committee on military affairs calls the things airplanes, and airplanes, therefore, are the only things that can pull money away from the public treasury—unless congress alters the wording of the bill. It appears that a sensitive representative from Texas objects to the word "aeroplane," and will not be satisfied with anything less than "airplane," which he says means the same thing. In the interests of the simple life, by all means call the things airplanes.

A justice of the peace in Pittsburgh offers to marry free every couple in which the bride did the proposing. He has already married twenty, and is looking for more. The male of the species must be losing his native courage when he relies on leap year for the popping of the question.

New York is to have women deputy sheriffs. This will be a great innovation and ought to change many things, for in the list of pretty and popular women named for the place any man would naturally feel pleased and proud to think of their having an attachment for him.

Now they say there are just as many hides as ever, but it is explained that there are more people who need shoes. And yet you can get them repaired while you wait on almost any corner now.

A dramatic society is advertising the revival of hissing in the theaters as a mark of disapprobation of plays. But the present deadly silence of disapproval is more significant than any amount of hissing, besides much more civil and civilized.

President McPatrick of the Chicago board of education is opposed to sewing and darning for schoolboys—also to tatting and dressing dolls. Can you blame him?

A wealthy woman at a social function in New York halted the proceedings to have the guests searched for a missing handbag. Some of our society folk are so eccentric!

Electric cars in Massachusetts are required to carry a lifting jack to serve as a Johnny-on-the-spot in case of need.

Dr. Surface, Pennsylvania state zoologist, says that skunks should be conserved. Certainly, doctor, but at a good safe distance.

The daughter of the Gaekwar of Baroda has been jilted and the Jutuk of Ursa has three who are unmarried.

Some Parisian plays are to be given in the open air. Can they stand it?

Every day of winter brings us nearer to spring.

DISTURBS AUDIENCE.

If you have any curiosity about the number of people here who have bad coughs just notice the next time you are at church or in any public gathering. You will hear someone coughing almost all the time.

We have said before in this paper that there is an unusual amount of bronchial trouble now, and this is because so many people neglect it.

There is no excuse for letting a cough hang on for months and years. The proof of this fact is that a remedy which cures stubborn cases right along would cure at first if taken then as it should be.

Mrs. E. B. Millard of Middletown, N. Y., says "Having used Vinol for chronic bronchitis which I have had for three or four years I can recommend it highly. It has given me very satisfactory results."

Take Vinol right away, and it will build you up, and stop your cough. It is doing this for thousands of others. We pay back your money if you are not satisfied with Vinol. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

MET DEATH IN DUTY'S COURSEMontgomery's Marshal Slain in a Poolroom.

WAS A TERROR TO EVILDOERS

By His Activity in Enforcing Obedience to the Law, Marshal Robert Walker Had Made Many Enemies in Mining Town—Entering John Healy's Poolroom to Investigate a Row He Was Attacked and Shot.

Washington, Ind., Feb. 28.—Town Marshal Robert Walker, aged 44 years, of Montgomery, a mining town, seven miles from this city, was shot and killed by Harry Healy, son of John Healy, a former saloon keeper, but now the proprietor of a restaurant and poolroom. A few minutes before the shooting John Healy had thrown a patron out of his place into the street. The marshal entered to investigate. Words arose between the two, and Healy threw Walker to the floor and, though down, Walker drew his revolver. Young Healy then interfered, took the weapon from the marshal and shot him, the bullet entering back of the right ear.

Walker had been marshal for about five months, and his activity in dispersing the rowdies of the place had made a number of enemies for him. He was a terror for evildoers generally.

Harry Healy and his father were placed in the county jail by the city officers.

HELD BY THE HEELS

Parole Officer Prevents Prisoner From Making Daring Escape.

Greenfield, Ind., Feb. 28.—W. R. Rafferty of this city, field agent of the Indiana reformatory, had a trying experience with a prisoner, William Smith, colored, who was being returned by Rafferty for the violation of his parole. The train was running more than fifty miles an hour, when the prisoner, although he was handcuffed, broke a car window and leaped through the opening. Rafferty grasped one of the prisoner's legs and held on until the train was stopped. Rafferty is at his home in this city wearing his hand in splints, the result of the encounter.

Search Was Fruitless.

Hillsboro, Ind., Feb. 28.—W. A. Wright, who was one of the men who went to Mexico to search for Herbert Williams, the missing Hillsboro boy, thought to be held in peonage in Mexico, has written home that the search was fruitless. Mr. Wright took up the matter with some Mexican authorities, and a search is being made for the missing lad.

Caught Him Coming Out.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 28.—Andrew Kelly, former superintendent of the city sewer department, pleaded guilty to grand larceny and was held to await the action of the circuit court. He is charged with entering William Graff's shoe store and stealing ten pairs of shoes, valued at $50. The proprietor saw Kelly coming out of the place.

Returned to Face the Music.

Danville, Ind., Feb. 28.—After being a fugitive from justice for several months, Barney Mayfield, indicted by the grand jury for illegal voting in the local option election in Middle township, came to Danville and surrendered to the authorities. He entered a plea of guilty and was fined $10, sent to jail for thirty days and disfranchised.

Made Good His Escape.

Redkey, Ind., Feb. 27.—A lone bandit held up and robbed Operator F. S. Vantiburg and his brother-in-law, W. A. Loveland, at the Pennsylvania passenger station here. With a revolver in each hand, the masked robber forced the two men to lay their watches and $35 on a table. He then forced them into a waiting room, looked the door and escaped.

WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLY

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
REPORTS PLENTY.

Although There is a Shortage of Wheat in Russia and of Potatoes in Europe Generally It is Not Serious.

Those who are concerned the world over with the question whether there is enough food for all mankind during a cold winter are watching the wheat harvest under the Southern Cross. That harvest, which in this connection has to do mainly with the great agricultural country of Argentina, is about completed. The work is progressing from north to south with the advance of the season, just as in the northern hemisphere the work of harvesting progresses from south to north, the cooler zones always having crops that mature more slowly.

If it should develop that the Argentine wheat crop is short, the cables would no sooner announce that fact than there would undoubtedly be a sharp advance in food prices in the United States and Europe. Officials of the department of agriculture, who keep closely in touch with such problems, say the advance in prices would probably be way beyond anything warranted by conditions. The speculators would seek to obtain an abnormal profit, and, of course, the consumer would pay for it all in the increased price of loaves.

There will apparently be no wheat shortage in Argentina, however, although so many dealers in the United States and South America are watching anxiously for such a signal. The yield of Argentine wheat is thought to be large from all the reports of an official character that have come up over the equator from that distant country. The southern republic is none the less having a lot of rain. That impedes the harvest, but it may not affect the quality of the yield. Much as to that will depend upon the kind of storms. The bumper Canadian crop of wheat this past year was considerably affected by the heavy storms of sleet and snow which swept the western provinces after the reapers had passed and before the grain had been thrashed. The official statements from Canada indicate that there will be 60,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat so badly damaged by October and November storms that it will go to market as No. 5 grade and be fit chiefly for animal feed.

But the important consideration to those who are interested in the broad question of the world's welfare is that there is an abundance of food for men, women and children during the year just beginning. That is on the authority of the department of agriculture, and is made after investigation which assures reliability. What ever happens in Argentina, the wheat supply of the world from the 1911 harvest will be about up to normal. This will be true in spite of two bad factors, one the Canadian storms already mentioned and the other the great shortage of wheat in Russia, where the yield in 73 governments, according to the reports from the Central Statistical Bureau of the Ministry of the Interior, show that 599,190,000 bushels have been harvested, as against 775,696,000 bushels in 1910 and 783,270,000 bushels in 1909.

There are many people in the United States to be affected by the status, because a great shortage of food staples in any part of the world in these days of lightning communication and ready transportation means a rise in prices of all food staples in this country, and a consequent increase in prices to the consumers, including poor people in the cities. But even with quite a wheat shortage in this year's harvest, which apparently there will not be, there would yet be food enough. The wheat granaries of the world have carried over a large stock, both from 1909 and 1910, when there were large crops. So there is wheat enough, and the speculators should not be allowed to promote any alarm.

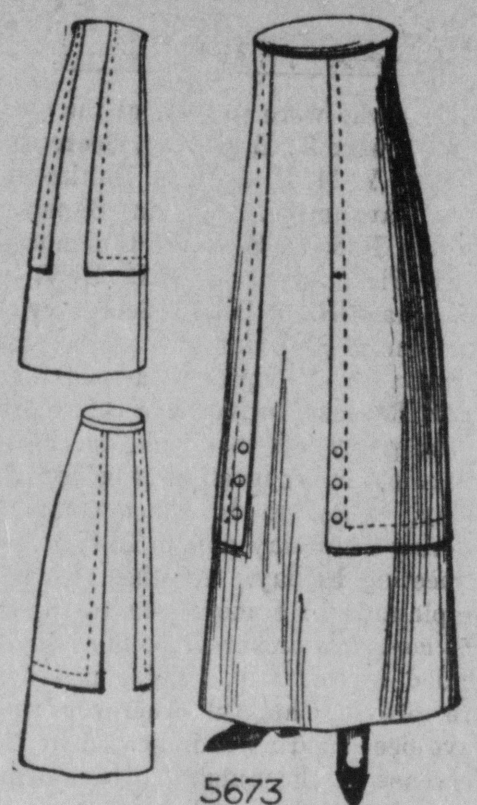

Another greater food product than wheat is also much under discussion at this juncture. That is the potato, of which there has been an enormous shortage. In Germany alone the potato shortage in 1911 amounts to 100,000,000 bushels. This, however, is not as serious as it might seem, because while potatoes both in Europe and the United States constitute a very important article of human diet, very large quantities are also fed to animals and possibly larger quantities are used for the manufacture of alcohol. Experience shows that potato shortage in any country does not mean a large demand for importations. There is undoubtedly wheat enough in the world to take the place of whatever is needed on account of the shortage of potatoes.

Proverbs of the Japanese.

Many Japanese proverbs have come from India and China, while intercourse with the Occident, and particularly with America, has added a very generous supply. Of these latter, "Time is money," is one straight from the hearthstones of Yankee land that has been hugged tight to the Japanese breast, and is perhaps more quoted in casual speech than any other.

Practical Fashions

LADY'S SIX-GORED SKIRT.

This stylish model exemplifies the attractive Empire waist line and the popular tunic, or overskirt. The pattern, however, is perforated for the regulation waist line, so either may be used. The skirt is made with six gores and is fashioned to fit smoothly over the hips in the style now in vogue.

The pattern (No. 5673) is cut in sizes from 22 to 30 inch waist measure. To make the skirt in the medium size will require 4 1/4 yards of 36 inch material or 3 yards of 44 inch goods.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

SOME COMPANY SALADS.

When serving luncheon or dinner to a few friends, one likes to have a salad that is a little unusual for the occasion. Here are a few to choose from:

Goldsmith Salad.—Take a half cup of apples minced fine, one-fourth of a cup of minced celery, a fourth of a cup of chopped hickory nut meats, a fourth of a cup of chopped green pepper and olives mixed. Serve in green pepper cups and garnish with mayonnaise dressing.

Apple, nuts and celery served in head lettuce is a simpler salad and one that is generally liked. Mayonnaise may be served with this or a plain, less expensive, boiled dressing.

Salad plants contain but little nourishment. Their chief value lies in the mineral salts they contain, and when mixed with dressings of oil they are of as much value to the system as food.

Lettuce and green vegetables, if allowed to stand in a dressing, will wilt, so it is best to keep the lettuce crisp and fresh, and serve it freshly prepared.

Grape Fruit or Pomelo Salad.—There is no fruit salad equal in deliciousness to that prepared with carefully removed sections of grape fruit added very gently to celery and nuts, and mixed with mayonnaise. Sometimes even the nuts will crush the fruit and the utmost care should be used in mixing the salad, otherwise the juice is crushed from the fruit and the salad is watery and unsightly.

Grape Fruit and Cherry.—Cut the ripe fruit in halves, using the large cherries when obtainable. Cut the grape fruit and remove the sections with care; let all stand a few moments in French dressing to season. Serve with mayonnaise on lettuce and garnish with maraschino cherries.

NEW REPUBLIC DECLARES WAR

China Throws Down the Gauntlet to the Dutch.

WARSHIPS SENT TO BATAVIA

Incensed Over Alleged Massacre of Chinese Subjects by Dutch Soldiers in Batavia the New Republic Has Demanded Indemnity of Holland and Has Sent Battleships to the Dutch Colony to Enforce Demand.

San Francisco, Cal., February 23.—Under instructions to begin a bombardment of Batavia if the Dutch government does not pay an indemnity demanded for the killing of Chinese soldiers, Chinese warships have been ordered to Java.

In an ultimatum sent to the Dutch government provisional President Sun Yat Sen declared that an attack on Java would be begun if the indemnity is not paid within a week. This information has been received here in a private dispatch from Dr. Sun's private secretary to the Chinese Free Press.

Dr. Sun declared in his ultimatum that passports would be handed to the Dutch minister, who is said to be at Shanghai enroute to Peking, if the indemnity was not paid.

Chinese explain the proposed action by Sun on the ground that the Manchurian government no longer exists and that the Dutch government must treat with the revolutionists, although the republic has not been formally recognized.

The three cruisers which left Shanghai are the Hai Chan, the Hai Yuhe and the Hai Sun. They were fully provisioned and equipped under orders of Wong Chung Wei, minister of war.

Advices to the Chinese newspapers here declare that the attack on the Chinese by Dutch soldiers was made without provocation and that three Chinese were killed and many others arrested.

YUAN ACCEPTS

And Will Probably Take the Oath of Office at Nanking.

Peking, Feb. 28.—When the republican delegation informed Yuan Shih Kai of his election to the presidency of the republic, Yuan expressed his appreciation of the honor and his willingness to accept the position. In his reply he emphasized the need of cooperation among the different factions and the desire and necessity of preserving friendly relations with the foreign powers. The delegation asked Yuan to take the oath of office at Nanking. The president said he would discuss the question later, but it appears from the present situation that he will certainly go to Nanking sooner or later.

The delegation was greeted with a greater show of enthusiasm by the people than Peking has seen since the revolt began, despite the momentous events beginning with the grant of the constitution to its ending with the abdication of the throne. The delegation when entering the city used the gate which was used solely for the emperor's use.

KNOX'S TRAVELS

Secretary of State Reaches Panama to Booming of Guns.

Panama, Feb. 28.—When Secretary Knox and party, on board the cruiser Washington, arrived at Colon they were met and welcomed by all the American and Panamanian officials at that place. A salute of nineteen guns was fired as the vessel nosed her way into the harbor. Then a committee boarded the vessel and greeted the secretary. The party boarded a special train for Panama. At Tivoli the train was met by President Chiari and the members of the Panamanian cabinet, who were escorted by a squad of troops. There was an exchange of formal visits between the presidential party and the American secretary, after which the train proceeded to Panama.

May Avert Great Strike.

London, Feb. 28.—Premier Asquith says that he hopes he will be able to prevent the coal miners' strike. The premier made that statement after a two hours' conference with the coal owners. Mr. Asquith also said the situation was decisively improved.

DEATH TO CATS OF INDIANA ADVOCATED

State Entomologist Declares War On Tabby.

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—Former State Entomologist B. W. Douglass, whose annual report for the year ending Sept. 30, 1911, will appear soon, will advocate in a part of the report that cats be watched more carefully in the interests of the birds of the state. Mr. Douglass believes a cat is only good when dead. The average house cat, with her appearance of sublime innocence, he sets out, is a murderer at heart, and her victims are the birds which delight to nest in the trees about the home.

The cat costs the people of the state, indirectly hundreds of thousands of dollars a year, it is set out, because of the destruction of birds and the consequent immunity assured the insects which feed on farm and garden crops and orchard trees.

Most objectionable is the cat as far as the quails are concerned, it is shown. While the farmers and sportsmen carefully guard these birds against the conscienceless hunter, they permit the cat to range the fields undisturbed, killing thousands of the birds annually. The quail has been shown time and time again to be the greatest collector of insects known and to be of inestimable value from an entomological viewpoint to the farmer and gardener. A small flock of quails that will visit a garden frequently, as they can be induced to do if not disturbed, will do more, it is shown, than combined use of paris green and other bug destroyers. Robins, bluejays, bluebirds and a host of others that, if permitted, would do their part toward the destruction of dangerous insects, are deterred in their activities by the cat, it is shown.

The state board of health has joined Mr. Douglass in his plea for fewer cats. The board has found them to be carriers of disease, especially rabies, which has been increasing at an alarming extent in the state during the last few years.

Cyclone Causes Heavy Damage.

Mayfield, Ky., Feb. 28.—Entirely unexpected a cyclone swept through the central portion of Graves county and left in its wake many demolished barns, stables and outhouses. Scores of residences also were damaged. The home of Oscar Flood was wrecked and his wife and infant had to be dug out of the debris. The wreckage ignited, and they were severely burned before rescued.

Fifty Years Ago Today. Feb. 28.

A large naval expedition under Commodore S. F. Dupont, captain of Port Royal, S. C., in November, 1861, sailed from that harbor to engage in hostile operations on the coast of Florida. News that Lord Russell, the premier of Great Britain, had declared that his country would not help establish a monarchy in Mexico reached Washington and relieved the public anxiety as to Mexican affairs.

KENTUCKY PRISONS UNDER NEW REGIME

Ouster Bill Creates Entirely New Conditions.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 28.—By a vote of 27 to 9 the senate passed the Hamilton bill abolishing the present prison commission and ousting from office Harvey McCutcheon of Franklin and Eli H. Brown of Frankfort, prison commissioners, and all of the employees of the penitentiaries. A nonpartisan prison commission of three members, to be appointed by Governor McCreary, was created, and also the offices of wardens, guards, etc., are revived. The bill had already passed the house. One commissioner is to be appointed for a term of two years and one missioners for terms of four years each. It is to be decided by lot who shall have the short term. All commissioners, except the one who gets the short term, will be ineligible for reappointment. The commissioners are required to give a bond of $25,000 to insure the faithful performance of their duties. The positions will pay $2,400 each annually.

QUESTION OF VERACITY

L. & N. Official's Word Disputed by Kentucky Legislators.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 28.—That W. F. Sheridan, superintendent of transportation for the Louisville & Nashville railroad, was so wrought up over the introduction in the legislature of what is known as the "nonpromotable bill," prohibiting railroads operating in Kentucky from promoting negro trainmen that he threatened to have discharged L. & N. employees who had asked for such legislation, was the statement made by W. E. Wilkie, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The charge was made before the senate railroad committee. Mr. Sheridan, who was present, denied he made such a statement. Representatives J. H. Williams and W. A. Shawler declared he did.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1912.

THE CONTEST.

It is natural under the circumstances that Republicans generally should feel a deep interest in the contest for the presidential nomination. It will doubtless become an exciting struggle in the country and there may develop considerable activity in the fourth district before delegates are selected. That there is to be a fight for the nomination over the country does not mean the party will be rent into permanent factions and demoralized for the great contest later, but the contest may even result in good by arousing party interest and political enthusiasm. No Republicans should put themselves in an attitude which will not permit of their giving their support and activities for the ticket next fall.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat contains some timely remarks and advice along this line. It says:

If any Republicans fear that the Taft-Roosevelt contest for the candidacy will defeat their party at the polls their attention should be directed to these important facts: The Colonel says he will support the ticket, no matter who heads it. He declares that he will not make a personal attack on the president. Likewise he denies that he said the president was not a Progressive. The president disclaims any intention of mentioning the Colonel personally in any of his talks, and declares that neither directly nor indirectly will he make any attack upon him. Certain close friends of the president and the Colonel say that they will remain neutral in the contest for the candidacy, but that after the convention makes its choice they will take the stump for the ticket, regardless of the names which it may carry.

Here are considerations which all Republicans should keep constantly in mind. The fight for the nomination will be conducted fairly. Every Republican who has any particular preference for the candidacy will have an opportunity to make that preference known. An especial effort will be made to keep personalities out of the canvass for the nomination. No antagonisms are likely to be created which will hamper any Republicans in supporting the ticket which will be selected. As everybody, or nearly everybody, believes that the present torpor in general trade is due to a fear that the Democrats, by some accident or fatality, may carry the country, as they did in 1892, all elements of the Republicans are likely to fall into line just as soon as the convention talks.

This is the right spirit for the Republicans in this exigency. The party is bigger than any of its leaders. The existing divergencies regarding nomination seekers are only temporary. The important consideration is that the party shall obtain a new mandate in the presidency in November, and that the present incapable and unpatriotic Democratic House be thrust back into the shadow from which it was drawn in 1910.

Republican Convention Call.

Pursuant to the order of the Republican State Committee the republicans of Jackson county are called to meet in mass convention on Saturday, March 23rd, 1912, at the hour and at the place in each township as designated below, for the purpose of electing delegates to the district convention at North Vernon, March 25th, 1912 for the purpose of electing two delegates and two alternates to the national convention; Also nominate one elector to be voted for at November election and one contingent elector. Also convention at Indianapolis, Ind. March 26th, 1912 for the purpose of electing four delegates at large and four alternate delegates at large to the National convention and to nominate two electors at large to be voted for at the November election and to select two contingent electors.

Carr township will elect one delegate to district convention and one delegate to Indianapolis. Place of meeting, Medora. Time 2 p. m.

Huyler's—Society's Favorite Con- fectionery.

In New York, Chicago, Boston,— in fact from coast—the name Huy- ler's stands for best in candy making; as a result, Huyler's is everywhere the favorite of those who appreciate quality. In the manufacture of Huy- ler's there is a total disregard of cost when quality is at stake. Every de- tail is given the most careful atten- tion and nothing is overlooked or left undone which would make the candy better. If the selling price should be doubled, the candy could not be im- proved; it is the best that knowledge, skill and conscientious workmanship can produce. Those who have al- ready tried Huyler's, say that not a single piece disappoints the taste— every candy is a delightful surprise; every box a revelation. The an- nouncement has just been made that an Agency for Huyler's has been established in Seymour at the store of Cole's Smoke House.

Much-Named Isle.

The Parisians, who are extremely fond of changing place names with- in their jurisdiction, have never equal- ed the record established in this re- spect in the case of the Island of Reunion, which has changed its name four times in a little over half a cen- tury and with little or no reason for doing so.

In 1793 it was Bourbon, and it had been for a century and a half; but the convention then changed it to Re- union.

Under the empire it became Isle Bonaparte, at the restoration it revert- ed to Bourbon, and, finally, in 1848, it became Reunion once more and so far has retained that name.

CHURCHMAN PARTY TO FRAUD

At Least, Ecclesiastic Thought So When Told Emerald Was Only an Imitation.

Bishop Johnson of South Dakota tells this story of himself:

"I was dining one night beside a man of whom I had never heard be- fore. I soon discovered that he was quick witted and later I was also to discover that he was a jewelry expert. I was wearing an emerald ring which I prize very highly for its history as well as for its beauty.

"Will you let me see your ring?" he asked.

"I gladly passed the trinket to him; he examined it critically, and then re- turned it, saying:

"It is the best imitation emerald I ever saw."

"I was startled. I told him that it was genuine and had been used in England by churchmen for 200 years, and that it had always been consid- ered a flawless gem.

"Nevertheless," he replied, "it is an imitation emerald."

"Some time later I met an expert in gems in New York, showed him the ring and asked his opinion of it. The man looked at it and told me that it was an imitation.

"I have reproached myself for hav- ing told you," he remarked.

"I'm glad you did tell me," I replied. "Else I might have transmitted a lie to posterity."

"You surely would have been in good company in doing that," said he, and the incident was at an end.—The World Today.

CHAPTER XVII.

For six weeks hand-running Daylight had seen nothing of Dede except in the office, and there he resolutely refrained from making approaches. But by the seventh Sunday his hunger for her overmastered him. It was a stormy day. A heavy south-east gale was blowing, and squall after squall of rain and wind swept over the city. He could not take his mind off of her, and a persistent picture came to him of her sitting by a window and sewing feminine fripperies of some sort. When the time came for his pre-luncheon cocktail to be served to him in his rooms, he did not take it. Filled with a daring determination, he glanced at his note-book for Dede's telephone number, and called for the switch.

At first it was the landlady's daughter who was raised, but in a minute he heard the voice he had been hungry to hear.

"I just wanted to tell you that I'm coming out to see you," he said. I didn't want to break in on you without warning, that was all."

"Has something happened?" came her voice.

"I'll tell you when I get there," he evaded.

She came herself to the door to receive him and shake hands with him. He hung his mackintosh and hat on the rack in the comfortable hall and turned to her for direction.

"They are busy in there," she said, indicating the parlor, from which came the boisterous voices of young people, and through the open door of which he could see several college youths. "So you will have to come into my rooms."

She led the way through the door opening out of the hall to the right, and, once inside, he stood awkwardly rooted to the floor, gazing about him and at her and all the time trying not to gaze. In his perturbation he failed to hear and see her invitation to a seat.

"Won't you sit down?" she repeated. "Look here," he said, in a voice that shook with passion, "there's one thing I won't do, and that's propose to you in the office. That's why I'm here. Dede Mason, I want you, I just want you."

So precipitate was he, that she had barely time to cry out her involuntary alarm and to step back, at the same time catching one of his hands as he attempted to gather her into his arms.

"Oh, I know I'm a sure enough fool," he said. "I—I guess I'll sit down. Don't be scared, Miss Mason. I'm not real dangerous."

"I'm not afraid," she answered, with a smile, slipping down herself into a chair.

"It's funny," Daylight sighed, almost with regret; "here I am, strong enough to bend you around and tie knots in you. Here I am, used to having my will with man, beast or anything. And here I am sitting in this chair, as weak and helpless as a little lamb. You sure take the starch out of me."

"Dede Mason, I Want You, I Just Want You."

"I—I wish you hadn't asked," she said softly.

"Maybe it's best you should know a few things before you give me an answer," he went on, ignoring the fact that the answer had already been given. "I never went after a woman before in my life, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The stuff you read about me in the papers and books, about me being a lady-killer, is all wrong. There's not an iota of truth in it. I guess I've done more than my share of card-playing and whisky-drinking, but women I've let alone. There was a woman that killed herself, but I didn't know she wanted me that bad or else I'd have married her—not for love, but to keep her from killing herself. She was the best of the boiling, but I never gave her any encouragement. I'm telling you all this because you've read about it, and I want you to get it straight from me."

"I can't marry you," she said. "I like you a great deal, but—"

He waited a moment for her to complete the sentence, falling which, he went on himself.

"I haven't an exaggerated opinion of myself, so I know I ain't bragging when I say I'll make a pretty good husband. You could follow your own sweet will, and nothing would be too good for you. I'd give you everything your heart desired—"

"Except yourself," she interrupted suddenly, almost sharply. "Don't you see?" she hurried on. "I could have far easier married the Elam Harnish fresh from Klondike when I first laid eyes on him long ago, than marry you sitting before me now."

He shook his head slowly.

"That's one too many for me. The more you know and like a man the less you want to marry him. Familiarity breeds contempt—I guess that's what you mean."

"No, no," she cried, but before she could continue, a knock came on the door.

His eyes, quick with observation like an Indian's, darted about the room while she was out. The impression of warmth and comfort and beauty predominated, though he was unable to analyze it; while the simplicity delighted him—expensive simplicity, he decided, and most of it left-overs from the time her father went broke and died.

She re-entered the room, and as she crossed it to her chair, he admired the way she walked, while the bronze slippers were maddening.

"I'd like to ask you several questions," he began immediately. "Are you thinking of marrying somebody else?"

"There isn't anybody else. I don't know anybody I like well enough to marry. For that matter, I don't think I am a marrying woman. Office work seems to spoil me for that."

"It strikes me that you're the most marryingest woman that ever made a man sit up and take notice. And now another question. You see, I've just got to locate the lay of the land. Is there anybody you like as much as you like me?"

But Dede had herself well in hand. "That's unfair," she said. "And if you stop and consider, you will find that you are doing the very thing you disclaimed—namely, nagging. I refuse to answer any more of your questions. Let us talk about other things. How is Bob?"

Half an hour later, whirling along through the rain on Telegraph Avenue toward Oakland, Daylight smoked one of his brown-paper cigarettes and reviewed what had taken place. It was not at all bad, was his summing up, though there was much about it that was baffling. There was that liking him the more she knew him and at the same time wanting to marry him less. That was a puzzler.

Once again, on a rainy Sunday, weeks afterward, Daylight proposed to Dede. As on the first time, he restrained himself until his hunger for her overwhelmed him and swept him away in his red automobile to Berkeley. He left the machine several blocks away and proceeded to the house on foot. But Dede was out, the landlady's daughter told him, and added, on second thought, that she was walking in the hills. Furthermore, the young lady directed him where Dede's walk was most likely to extend. Daylight obeyed the girl's instructions, and soon the street he followed passed the last house and itself ceased where began the first steep slopes of the open hills. The air was damp with the on-coming of rain, for the storm had not yet burst, though past them in quicker and stronger blasts. The big downpour of rain had not yet come, but the mist-like squalls were more frequent. Daylight was openly perplexed, and he was still perplexed when he began to speak.

"You've left me no argument. I know I'm not the same man that came from Alaska. I couldn't hit the trail with the dogs as I did in them days. I'm soft in my muscles, and my mind's gone hard. I used to respect men. I despise them now. You see, I spent all my life in the open, and I reckon I'm the rising wind proclaimed its imminence. As far as he could see, there was no sign of Dede on the smooth, grassy hills. To the right, dipping down into a hollow and rising again, was a large, full-grown eucalyptus grove. Here all was noise and movement, the lofty, slender-trunked trees swaying back and forth in the wind and clashing their branches together. In the squalls, above all the minor noises of creaking and groaning, arose a deep thrumming note as of a mighty harp. Knowing Dede as he did, Daylight was confident that he would find her somewhere in this grove where the storm effects were so pronounced. And find her he did, across the hollow and on the exposed crest of the opposing slope where the gale smote its fiercest blows.

"It's the same old thing," he said. "I want you and I've come for you. You've just got to have me, Dede, for the more I think about it the more certain I am that you've got a sneaking liking for me that's something more than just ordinary liking. And you don't dare say that it isn't; now dast you?"

"Please, please," she begged. "We can never marry, so don't let us discuss it."

Daylight decided that action was more efficient than speech. So he stepped between her and the wind and drew her so that she stood close in the shelter of him. An unusually stiff squall blew about them, and thrummed overhead in the tree-tops, and both paused to listen. A shower of flying leaves enveloped them, and hard on the heel of the wind came driving drops of rain. He looked down on her and on her hair, wind-blown about her face; and because of her closeness to him and of a fresher and more poignant realization of what she meant to him, he trembled so that she was aware of it in the hand that held hers. She suddenly leaned against him, bowing her head until it rested lightly upon his breast. And so they stood while another squall, with flying leaves and scattered drops of rain, rattled past. With equal suddenness she lifted her head and looked at him.

"Do you know," she said, "I prayed last night about you. I prayed that you would fall, that you would lose everything—everything."

Daylight stared his amazement at this cryptic utterance.

"That sure beats me. I always said I got out of my depth with women, and you've got me out of my depth now. Well, you've just got to explain, that's all."

His arms went around her and held her closely, and this time she did not resist. Her head was bowed, and he could not see her face, yet he had a premonition that she was crying. He had learned the virtue of silence, and he waited her will in the matter. Things had come to such a pass that she was bound to tell him something now. Of that he was confident.

"I would dearly like to marry you," she faltered, "but I am afraid. I am proud and humble at the same time that a man like you should care for me. But you have too much money. There's where my abominable common sense steps in. Even if we did marry, you could never be my man—my lover and my husband. I know I am a foolish woman, but I want my man for myself. And your money destroys you; it makes you less and less nice. I am not ashamed to say that I love you, because I shall never marry you. And I loved you much when I did not know you at all, when you first came down from Alaska and I first went into the office. You were my hero. You were the Burning Daylight of the gold-diggings, the daring traveler and miner. And you looked it. I don't see how any woman could have looked at you without loving you—then. But you don't look it now. You, a man of the open, have been cooping yourself up in the cities with all that that means. You are becoming something different, something not so healthy, not so clean, not so nice. Your money and your way of life are doing it. You know it. You haven't the same body now that you had then. You are putting on flesh, and it is not healthy flesh. You are kind and genial with me, I know, but you are not kind and genial to all the world as you were then. You have become harsh and cruel. I do love you, but I cannot marry you and destroy love. You are growing into a thing that I must in the end despise. You can't help it. More than you can possibly love me, do you love this business game. This business—and it's all perfectly useless, so far as you are concerned—claims all of you. I sometimes think it would be easier to share you equitably with another woman than to share you with this business. I might have half of you, at any rate. But this business would claim, not half of you, but nine-tenths of you, or ninety-nine hundredths. You hold back nothing; you put all you've got into whatever you are doing—"

"Limit is the sky," he grunted grim affirmation.

"But if you would only play the lover-husband that way. And now I won't say another word," she added. "I've delivered a whole sermon."

She rested now, frankly and fairly, in the shelter of his arms, and both were oblivious to the gale that rushed an open-air man. Why, I've got the prettiest little ranch you ever laid eyes on up in Glen Ellen. That's where I got stuck for the brickyard. You recollect handling the correspondence. I only laid eyes on the ranch that one time, and I so fell in love with it that I bought it there and then. I just rode around the hills, and was happy as a kid out of school. I'd be a better man living in the country. The city doesn't make me better. You're plumb right there. I know it. But suppose your prayer should be answered and I'd go clean broke and have to work for day's wages? Suppose I had nothing left but that little ranch, and was satisfied to grow a few chickens and scratch a living somehow—would you marry me then, Dede?"

"Why, we'd be together all the time!" she cried.

Then was the moment, among the trees, ere they began the descent of the hill, that Daylight might have drawn her closely to him and kissed her once. But he was too perplexed with the new thoughts she had put into his head to take advantage of the situation. He merely caught her by the arm and helped her over the rougher footing. At the edge of the grove he suggested that it might be better for them to part there, but she insisted that he accompany her as far as the house.

"Do you know," he said, "taking it by and large, it's the happiest day of my life. Dede, Dede, we've just got to get married. It's the only way, and trust to luck for it's coming out all right."

But the tears were threatening to rise in her eyes again, as she shook her head and turned and went up the steps.

NO RESISTANCE TO THE REBELS

Juarez Gave Up Without a Struggle.

COMPLICATIONS WERE FEARED

Dreading the Possibility of Immediate Intervention From the Other Side of the River in Event of Battle Bullets Impinging on El Paso, Mexican Officials Permit Vasquistas to Seize the Port Without a Struggle.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 28.—Rebels styling themselves Vasquistas are in possession of Juarez, the largest Mexican port of entry on the Mexican border. Whether the Mexican government will attempt to retake it is problematical.

Mexican Consul E. C. Lorente of El Paso declares the town gave up rather than run the risk of complications with the United States. Troops of the United States filled all the business streets of El Paso, ready to go into Juarez if bullets began falling on American soil. If the Mexican government attempts to retake the town, it must again endanger El Paso. Having surrendered to prevent international complications, Americans think there will be no effort to take the place, and that the port of Juarez is closed. In consideration of its having surrendered to prevent violation of American neutrality, the Mexican government will now doubtless insist upon the United States looking upon the port of Juarez as closed and stopping the importation or exportation of merchandise.

The rebels captured the town practically without any resistance. Immediately establishing guards in the town, they proceeded to set up their government. No rioting or disorder attended the fall of the city. Only one man was wounded in the attack, and he was wounded by accident. He was Captain Cayetano Romero of the defenders, accidentally shot in the side by one of his own men. The rebels did not have a man killed or wounded. Two El Paso homes were struck by flying bullets. The rebels entered the town firing with their rifles and with a lone cannon which they dragged with them. Some of the Juarez defenders replied to the first rebel volley, but this was contrary to orders from their commanders, and they were soon silenced.

The attacking army then marched through the streets unopposed, absolutely victorious. The custom house, postoffice, municipal buildings, jail, barracks and other public places were seized and guards were immediately placed to preserve order. Guards were also placed at the two railroad stations and sent to the international bridges that communicate with El Paso. The invaders found all the stores in Juarez closed and locked, the doors barred in many instances, but they made no effort to loot and their commanders soon had guards posted throughout the city. It was a most orderly capture. Orders were issued that looting would be punished by execution.

Throughout the excitement United States troops, including a battery of artillery, were lined up on the American side looking on, ready to march over to stop the trouble if El Paso lives became endangered.

SLEPT ON RIGHTS

This Is Contention of Bondsmen Resisting State's Suit.

Greenfield, Ind., Feb. 28.—The bondsmen of Tremilious Jackson, treasurer of Hancock county from 1904 to 1908, and whose accounts are said by the state board of accounts field examiners to be short $800, have employed counsel and will resist payment. The defense will assert that the principal is dead, and that the state has permitted his estate to be closed permanently without presenting the claim for payment, when the estate was sufficient to have paid the amount alleged to be short.

Stolen Checks Left in Box. Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 28.—A safe in the Maceo Mercantile company's store was blown open. One hundred dollars in cash and $350 in checks were taken. The checks were found in a box with a lump of coal on them, half a mile from the store. Bloodhounds failed to follow the trail.

Fatal Quarrel Over Eggs. Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Steve Withers and Clay Garner, colored, employes on Major Thomas J. Carson's Dixiana farm, a nursery for thoroughbred horses, quarreled over the eggs from some game hens. Garner shot and killed Withers. Garner is in jail here.

Arrested in Kentucky. Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Deputy Sheriff Evans of Champaign county, Illinois, left here with John W. Ratcliffe, who is wanted at Urbana on the charge that he shot John Black, a fellow railroad employe, on Dec. 5.

He Waived Examination. Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Sigmund H. Speyer in police court waived examining trial on the charge of appropriating to his own use funds of Speyer & Sons, and was held to the grand jury.

SENATOR DIXON

It is understood that United States Senator J. M. Dixon of Montana will be chairman of the Roosevelt campaign committee, with Walter Brown of Ohio, W. L. Ward of New York and Frank Knox of Michigan on the executive committee.

MONKS ON TRIAL ON CHARGES OF CRIME

Secrets of Pauline Monastery to Be Aired in Court.

Vienna, Feb. 28.—For stealing the jewels of the Black Virgin from the Roman Catholic cathedral at Czestochau, Russian Poland, the trial of Father Macoch and two other Pauline monks has been opened at Petrikov. It is likely to last a week, as over a hundred witnesses have been summoned.

This is the famous case which involves not only robbery, but fratricide, the elopement of a monk with a disolute woman and the organization of a disolute circle of monks in the Pauline monastery. The jewels were stolen three years ago. Father Macoch and Helene Ostranska, a beautiful woman, disappeared about the same time and lived together in Moscow for a year. The priest became anxious to get rid of the woman and married her to his brother. The woman told her husband about the robbery of the Black Virgin, and the monk killed his brother, as he was afraid of being betrayed. He administered absolution to the man he was about to kill.

After the arrest of Macoch a thorough search was made of the monastery and it was found that systematic robbery had been carried on for years. The jewels have now been placed in charge of a new administrative force and several monks are to be tried for theft. The woman Ostranska is also under arrest.

Welch, W. Va., Feb. 28.—R. D. Allen, a railroad man, whose home is here, has been arrested at Columbus, O., under the federal law and is awaiting hearing for violating the "white slave" traffic act. The accusation is founded upon the charge of Almeda Jane Adkins of Culloden, W. Va., who is only sixteen years of age. The little victim was found in a Columbus resort and told the police that Allen had taken her to Columbus, promising to get work for her. Instead he sent her to the resort. Allen is married and has a family.

Uncle Sam Will Look Into It. Boston, Feb. 28.—Federal investigation of the action of the Lawrence police in preventing children of strikers from leaving that city to accept the offer of temporary homes in Philadelphia and other cities, has been begun by United States District Attorney French on orders received from the department of justice in Washington. Special agents of the department of justice are to go to Lawrence to work on the matter.

Deadly Duel Over Drink. Nicholasville, Ky., Feb. 28.—Louis Sherrow, twenty-four years old, son of L. D. Sherrow, groceryman, was shot and killed in a pistol duel with Harry Hughes on Main street. There had been ill-feeling between the two for some time. Sherrow, meeting Hughes on the street, invited him to take a drink. Hughes declined, and the shooting followed.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle to-day, and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 37 women free on request. THE PAXTON TOILET CO., BOSTON, MA.
